NEAPCO STRIKE SET FOR MIDNIGHT TOMORROW

Happy Children Cheer Santa Claus' Arrival

Nearly 1200 shouting, were gaining nourishment from the whistle-toting children gave candy.

Santa Claus spread cheer and gifts not only among the huge crowds greeting him at the Reading company station and Pottstown Senior High school auditorium, but also among children in hospitals and private homes.

He was brought here on the 9.44 o'clock train from the North Pole by the New York store, which will be his Pottstown headquarters from now till Christmas.

Jack Hoffman, a partner in the store, reported that 1200 tickets to Santa's auditorium show had been given out for the asking at the store. And though the kids didn't sit still long enough to be counted, it was obvious that most of the 1200 were there.

Santa rode in an open car, north on Hanover street from the station to Chestnut street, and then east to the high school. Santa's car followed a police car driven by Motor Patrolman Earl J. Rhoads, and hundreds of children followed Santa, shouting every inch of the way.

Adding to the excitement in the auditorium were hundreds of lollipops which the children could (and did) produce shrill whistles at the same time they

Santa's Audience Is Big and Appreciative

"Look how close I'm standing to Santa Claus" is what these children (top photo) seem to be saying as they crowd around him, seconds after he got off the train at the Reading station yesterday. Nearly 1200 children greeted him there and at the Pottstown Senior High school auditorium. Santa was brought here by the New York store, where he'll be every shopping day until Christmas. Below left, the children of Mrs. Evelyn Hillegass, 24 Scott street, Penn Village, came running to greet Santa at their home. Left to right, they're LeRoy, 15; Larry, 4; Naomi, 12; Richard, 6; Ella, 16; Dennis, 10, and Clarence, 9. Missing is William, 18. Below, right, 2-year-old Linda Herrlinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herrlinger, 961 South Hills boulevard, has eyes only for Santa, not for the photographer. With her on Santa's lap is Sharon Baker, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baker, 316 Rowan avenue. (Another picture on Page 3).

Legless Hunter Plans to Seek Deer Monday, Firing From His Wheelchair

By BARRY R. NEMCOFF
(Mercury Staff Writer)

As hundreds of Pottstown area hunters eagerly cleaned their high-powered rifles in anticipation of deer season opening Monday morning, there was none more eager to "get a trophy this year" than John Nuss, of Douglassville.

But as other hunters will be stalking their antlered game on foot in the wilderness of Pennsylvania's mountain counties, Nuss will be doing his hunting from a wheelchair in French Creek State park, Chester county.

This outdoor man of 35 years standing, through a process of several years due to Burger's disease, has lost both legs, but refuses to give in to his handicap when it means giving up hunting and fishing.

Although he can claim 11 buck and four doe during his gunning career, Nuss said that this will be the first time that he will hunt a deer from a wheelchair to which he was confined following an amputation in July, 1951.

A GROUP of friends will transport Nuss to the hunting grounds Monday, wheel him into the woods where he will "take a stand" while the others try driving the game in his direction.

But Nuss explained that Richard Volz, of Halfway House, who is scheduled to report for induction into the Army Tuesday, will be in the hunting party and "it's for the kid we'll be trying to drive up the game because this will probably be his last chance to hunt for

Pay, Seniority Issues Affect 160 Employees

Employees of Neapco Products incorporated, South and Cross streets, voted yesterday to go on strike tomorrow midnight when their present labor contract expires.

Approximately 130 members of Neapco Local 2479, United Steel Workers (CIO) met yesterday afternoon at CIO hall, 364 King street, to reject the company's latest offer and approve a strike by a vote of 81 to 26. A strike will affect 160 workers.

Earl P. Noecker, president of the union and head of the bargaining committee, said last night the walkout is being staged principally because of the wage increase and seniority clauses in the contract.

Negotiations for the new pact were started two weeks ago. Noecker said the union sent its proposals in writing to Paul Mitchell, plant vice president, a month ago asking for a "substantial wage increase, three weeks vacation for employees with over 15 years service and more emphasis on seniority rights."

"Since that time we checked with the Wage Stabilization board and found out we can ask for a 14-cent hourly increase without the board's approval and that's what we're going to hold out for," Noecker stated.

THE COMPANY'S offer, which was rejected yesterday, was made at the last meeting of the bargaining committee and plant officials the past Wednesday at which time, Mitchell said, "We offered a 6-cent increase, three weeks vacation for men with over 20 years service, and changed the training period in the automatic screw shop from 30 days to 60 days." No mention was made of the seniority clause.

OLD-TIME STOVE COMPANY PLANS ON DISSOLUTION

Buckwalter Firm Once Shipped Stoves All Over the World

By FRED C. SELBY
(Mercury Staff Writer)

Housewives from Pottstown to South America still may be cooking on Buckwalter ranges, and burgers in Germany and Belgium still may be sitting around Buckwalter parlor stoves, but the Royersford company that made them is breathing its last.

This was learned yesterday from Harrisburg, where the five-man board of directors of Buckwalter Stove company, once the biggest industry in the Twin-Boroughs and the biggest stove company in Pennsylvania, filed for a certificate of dissolution.

The directors told the Pennsylvania State department that they now are settling the last of their affairs.

Buckwalter Stove company stopped manufacturing two decades ago, but it continued to maintain an office in Royersford, and received orders for parts for the stoves it began manufacturing in 1866.

The firm still gets parts orders. In recent years, the parts have been made by March Brownback company's foundry.

THE SMALL Buckwalter office closed the past year, when the last of the sprawling plant was sold. As one man who had been connected with the company said yesterday: "We're cleaned out of everything now. Thank God!"

The plant had five sizeable red-brick buildings sprawling over a

$5-$10 in Silver Taken by Burglar From Man's Kitchen

Another link was added to the Pottstown chain of burglaries yesterday.

Between $5 and $10 in silver was stolen from the home of John Dietrich, Pottstown RD 3, yesterday.

The burglary was the fifth since Nov. 11 in the area. Four of the break-ins have been in the borough and the fifth took place across the Schuylkill river from Pottstown.

Dietrich told Sgt. Thomas A. Lawler and Patrolman William Myers he arrived home from work at 5:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon. When he turned on the kitchen light he saw pieces of the cellar door paneling splintered on the floor.

ENTRY to the house was made through the outside cellar door which had been left unlocked. The bottom paneling of the door which leads from the cellar into the

Parents, Friends Crowd Borough Hall In Draftees' Goodbye

A throng of parents and friends crowded into borough hall early yesterday morning to say a few parting words to the 31 Pottstown area men leaving for induction into the Army.

R. Ross Longaker, chief clerk of Local board 110, reported that the largest contingent to leave here since the Korean conflict began was seen off by a capacity crowd which "jammed the council room, the stairway and overflowed to the sidewalk."

The men, who reported at 6 a. m. for a head count which established all present, left by bus for the Schuylkill arsenal, Philadelphia where they were to be given a final physical check-up, and transferred to Ft. George G. Meade, Md., for processing.

Longaker announced that another contingent of draftees is scheduled to leave Tuesday morning.

Policewomen Will Start Their Duties January, Committee Members Decide

By ROBERT E. HOYER
(Mercury Staff Writer)

The first Pottstown policewomen will go on duty in January. Council police committee voted last night to advertise for eight policewomen to guard dangerous intersections four times daily for the protection of school children.

Council authorized policewomen on Nov. 10. In other action the committee voted to keep the curfew ordinance on the books, approved the purchase of a special camera for photographing burglary scenes and heard a report on speed traps by Chairman Earl R. Strange.

Strange said the speed traps on West High, East High and North

Charlotte streets would be established as soon as all material has been received.

"ONE OF the speed warning signs has been erected and others have been painted. We'll have the traps in operation as soon as all equipment is here. Sgt. Linton (Sgt. Daniel J. Linton) has been placed in charge of the trap program."

Strange read the rules and regulations which will apply to policewomen and showed committee members an application which all candidates for the job will be required to complete.

Women will occupy designated posts four times a day during periods immediately preceding and following the convening and dismissal of public schools.

The eight posts are: Keim and South streets, Keim and Beech streets, Beech and Warren streets, South and Charlotte streets, Grace and Charlotte streets, Walnut and Hanover streets, Third and Hanover streets and Eighth street and Farmington avenue.

All policewomen will be vested with the powers and authority of

Citizenship Classes In English to Open At YWCA Tuesday

Americanization classes with the purpose of teaching elementary English and preparing Pottstown area residents to become naturalized citizens of the United States will start Tuesday night, Mrs. Ralph C. Johnson, chairman of the YWCA Education committee, announced yesterday.

The ten-week course will cover English conversation, reading, spelling and composition on the elementary level, American history and civic government and other subjects needed for complying with naturalization qualifications.

Mrs. Johnson said, however, that if the borough school board approves the proposed plan of taking over the responsibility of teaching the course, the YWCA will discontinue its own effort.

Dr. George A. McCormick, superintendent of schools, had said earlier that the plan will be discussed for approval at the board's

Parakeet Situation Becomes Muddy

A coincidence that is peculiar to the point of being mysterious was reported yesterday on Pottstown's troubled parakeet front.

At least three Pottstown area residents have lost one or more of the little, parrot-like tropical birds in the past few months.

The latest parakeet reported missing was one owned by Mrs. Clarence T. Seibert, 234 Chestnut street. It was lost the past Sunday.

Thursday, Elsie Gaugler, 145 King street, captured a little parakeet in her yard. Because her home is, as the parakeet flies, only a block from Mrs. Seibert's home, Miss Gaugler felt sure the one she'd found was the one Mrs. Seibert had lost.

MRS. SEIBERT went to the King street home early yesterday afternoon to get her missing blue parakeet. "I just had quite a disappointment," she reported a few minutes later. "That bird isn't mine."

A new twist developed in the borough's troubled parakeet population.

Borough Announces Yule Party Service

If anyone is at a loss about planning a Christmas party, the borough Recreation commission can help solve the problem, Robert A. Reis, director, announced yesterday.

Reis said his department has prepared a list of party suggestions and games available to the public and organizations planning Christmas celebrations.

This will be the first of a series of such services to cover all occasions, Reis said.

"Although we have done this on a small scale before, not many people know about this service and we would like to inform them," he continued.

Motorist Charged As Drunk Is Held For Chester Court

A motorist charged with drunken driving as the result of an accident on Route 83 near Spring City was released under bail for Chester county court last night.

Alden Schenck, 47, Phoenixville RD 1, who allegedly drove his car into the rear of an auto driven by Ernest H. Hetrick, 55, of 322 Vincent street, Spring City, Wednesday night, pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace, George D. Ellwanger, near Phoenixville.

He was freed on $500 bail provided by his brother, George Schenck.

The accused man allegedly drove his car into Hetrick's coupe which was heading west on Route 83 at a low speed and was waiting for two other west-bound cars to increase speed.

The first car in line was making a turn and had to wait for an

Trampled Youth 'Serious'

The condition of the 23-year-old Pottstown RD 2 youth who was trampled by a bull Wednesday night remained serious in Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia, early this morning.

Robert Amole, son of Mrs. Edna Amole, Knauertown, was butted and trampled by the animal while home on a visit from college.

A spokesman at Jefferson reported he "is not resting too comfortably at present."

Hospital Announces Bobby Is Near Death

Bobby Walters was reported "sinking fast" yesterday by Sacred Heart hospital, Norristown.

Although the 4-year-old Green Lane RD 1 cancer and polio victim was said to have been resting well and not suffering much pain, more convulsions were expected as a result of the malignant growth which has entered his brain.

This prediction was made by the Philadelphia cancer specialist who examined Bobby late yesterday afternoon and ordered a blood count which will be taken today.

His nurse said the boy requested to be put in a wheel chair in the morning and ate some cooked cereal for breakfast and ice-cream later in the day.

"We give him anything he asks for," she said.

Chill Winds Keep Mercury 'Way Down'

Pottstonians buttoned their coats up closer to their necks yesterday as chill winds kept the mercury mostly below the 40 mark.

Many realized that it was time to put more anti-freeze in auto radiators and more steam in house radiators. To others, it seemed like the time to change from Fall topcoats to mufflers and heavy overcoats.

Those who slept with windows open last night found themselves pulling up that

AIR DISASTER IS SEVENTH
FOR NORTHWEST, ALASKA

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 28 (AP)—The seventh big military plane to crash in the Pacific northwest and Alaska in a disastrous three weeks killed 36 persons here early today, including four married couples and their eight children.

Montgomery County (Bridgeport, Pa.) residents, Lt. and Mrs. Anthony R. Iacovitti, were among the dead, along with two sons, Anthony F. and John A., and a daughter, Barbara.

Little Joseph Iacovitti, 8, another son, survived. The next of kin was listed as Joseph Iacovitti, Bridgeport.

THE ONLY TWO other surviving the four-engine transport's explosive crash and flames after it clipped tree tops in heavy fog near McChord Air Force base.

This afternoon the biggest missing plane of them all — a C-124 Globemaster — was sighted at the 8000 foot level of Surprise glacier on Mount Gannett, some 50 miles east of its Anchorage, Alaska, destination.

The Globemaster vanished late Saturday night with 52 aboard on a flight to Anchorage from McChord. "There is no sign of life — no life," the president of the University of Alaska — Dr. Terris Moore, an accomplished flier — radioed on spotting the wreckage.

Ironically, the ill-fated C-54 transport crashed a few moments after the pilot, Capt. Albert J. Feigton, had radioed the McChord base that he was giving up on the attempt to land "blind" in the heavy fog, under guidance of a radar-directed ground crew.

Col. William L. Turner, McChord commander, said the pilot said he was going to head instead to his home base at Great Falls, Mont.

That was at 12:48 a. m. It was the last word from him. Moments later the big plane was broken to bits and the dead and the dying were scattered about a brush-dotted clearing.

Joseph Iacovitti's neck was fractured and he suffered severe burns. The Iacovittis were leaving Alaska on rotation. They were headed for Cambridge, Mass., where Iacovitti was assigned to the Cambridge research center after two years in Alaska with a fighter squadron. They had ordered a new car before leaving Alaska and were to pick it up in Detroit on their way East.

Two other couples died with two children each and another with one child.

Purge Axe Honed For Red Leaders In Western Europe

PARIS, Nov. 28 (AP)—Communists of Western Europe sharpened the purge axe today for any of their members who were friends of the 14 Red leaders condemned in Czechoslovakia's show trial. French Communist boss Maurice Thorez may be among those marked.

The anti-Zionist attack signaled by the Prague trial, in which 11 were doomed to death and three to life in prison yesterday, is expected now to spread to all Red parties. Not only Communist leaders of Jewish origin, but those who had close connections with such leaders, likely will be targets. The stress of the Prague trial was anti-Zionism, blaming the state of Israel for Czechoslovakia's economic turmoil; but there were indications that Jews behind the Iron Curtain see it as Hitler-like anti-semitism. The 30,000 Jews in Czechoslovakia are reported as they were when the Nazis marched into the country in 1939.

Sign of Welcome in Korea

HURRY UP IKE

원수내한속구

Eager to welcome President-Elect Dwight Eisenhower to Korea are the school children of Seoul, one of whom carried this "Hurry Up Ike" banner in a mass parade of 23,000 youngsters. Thousands of Allied troops and police have moved into the war-battered Korean capital to make it "bullet-proof" when he arrives.

Seoul Throbbing With Anticipation For 4th Day; Ike Represents Hope

SEOUL, Saturday, Nov. 29 (AP)—Seoul throbs with anticipation Friday for the fourth straight day as the Republic of Korea awaited the arrival of President-Elect

Dwight D. Eisenhower with almost religious fervor. Government spokesman Clarence Rye explained: "Koreans want the division of their country ended. They want a united Korea. They want their country saved and, they think General Eisenhower will save it. And they are eagerly awaiting the opportunity to tell him so."

"General Eisenhower represents the last great hope of our 22,000,000 people."

"ASK ANY MAN on the street and he will tell you he believes Eisenhower will drive the Chinese Reds completely out of Korea. So the sentiment of welcome is a strong and stirring thing."

Even down the narrow, wretched back alleys of Seoul—places Eisenhower certainly will never visit—signs with his picture smiling out decorate dirty, crowded hovels.

The intensity of feeling over the new American president's impending arrival has spread throughout the country into remote farm areas, and to cities and towns he will not be scheduled to see.

"Every city is decorated," said Rhee. "Our people are sick and tired of waiting for this war to end. They are sick of armistice negotiations that are not getting anything settled."

HE GOT OFF to a late start on his trip. The ship, due to have sailed at 5 p. m. (Pottstown time), was held up for a while because of what line officials said were difficulties caused by a longshoremen's work stoppage Wednesday.

Lewis booked two staterooms, for himself and his daughter Kathryn, who has been ailing. Efforts were made to keep the trip secret and none of Lewis' subordinates would confirm that Lewis had planned it. But Moore-McCormack lines said the passage had been booked two weeks ago.

At the time Lewis planned the trip he had every expectation that the Government would long since have disposed of his wage appeal. He negotiated a $1.90 daily pay boost for 375,000 soft coal miners the past September. The Wage Stabilization board (WSB) cut that back to $1.50 on grounds that any more would damage the stabilization program. Lewis and the industry immediately appealed the WSB ruling to Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam.

THE AIR FORCE said the survey team will be composed of members of the Air Force Office of Flight Safety, Norton Air Base, San Bernardino, Calif.; communications experts from headquarters, Airways and Air Communications service, Andrews A.F.B., Washington, D.C.; and members of the Civil Aeronautics administration.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Air Force said tonight it will make a special survey of radio navigational aids and communications systems, en route to and within Alaska, because of the recent aircraft accidents and increased operations.

IKE IS QUOTED ON HIS IDEAS ON FILIBUSTERING

Walter White Asserts
General Wants Cessation

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—President-Elect Eisenhower was quoted today as saying he would make known to the new Senate "that he wants filibustering stopped."

This report of the General's attitude came from Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who added: "He pledged that he would use every power within his official position to abolish discrimination and segregation and injustice."

The filibuster is the ace in the hole for opponents of civil rights legislation. It is a means of literally talking to death any bill that doesn't suit them. Said White: "He said it" (filibuster) was a question as to how far the executive can persuade the Congress to change its rules. He pledged us he would see that filibustering and Senate rules are not used to defeat legislation."

WHITE'S VISIT to Eisenhower followed the president-elect's private talks with CIO labor leaders, who opposed his election. The CIO men said they told the General, "We will react vigorously to any effort to cut living standards, to attack labor."

"We made no suggestions to Gen. Eisenhower as to his appointment of a secretary of labor," the CIO statement added. "The labor post is one of the two hitherto unfilled posts in the new nine-man cabinet. The other is secretary of commerce."

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said the General has weekend appointments with John Foster Dulles, who is to be his secretary of state, and others.

Hagerty said these should produce "important and noteworthy announcements."

"You can assume appointments will be made over the weekend," Hagerty added, although he didn't say whether the two cabinet posts will be filled.

During the day, Eisenhower designated Thomas E. Stephens, a New York lawyer, as special counsel to the president, and Dr. Gabriel Hauge, also of New York, as White House administrative assistant.

Stephens, 49, has been serving as Eisenhower's appointments secretary. He is Irish-born, a former New York city corporation counsel, a former secretary of the New York State Republican committee, and an Air Force veteran of World War II in Europe.

As special counsel, Stephens will hold a top White House staff position, helping to assemble the new president's state of the union message, preparing key documents and writing many of his major speeches.

Luchese Walks Into Lawyer's Office, Accepts Denaturalization Summons

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—In the midst of a big FBI search, Thomas (Three Finger Brown) Luchese today quietly accepted a denaturalization summons — first step in a deportation move against him.

The purported successor to underworld racketeer Frank Costello walked into his lawyer's office to end a ten-day search.

Luchese pictured the Federal Government as making a Roman holiday of a simple process serving, with a publicity-hungry US marshal prancing in front of television cameras and waving the summons.

"It was quite a spectacle," said Luchese.

HOWEVER, THE stocky, 52-year-old Luchese refused to tell where Menon Delays Vote on India's Plan For Repatriation of War Prisoners.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP)—India's V. K. Krishna Menon today delayed until Monday or later a final vote on his own Korean resolution despite the known wish of the United States and its allies for an immediate decision.

Menon told the UN Political committee chairman, Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil, he would not be ready to speak until Monday. Muniz told the committee of this and again asked delegates to stop talking and vote as soon as Menon is heard.

The committee voted 27 to 24 to meet Monday at 3 p. m. and hear Menon.

Some delegates said they voted against postponement for fear that Menon might withdraw his resolution but Menon told newsmen he had no intention of withdrawing it. He said there was no mystery in his reason for waiting until Monday to speak. He said he wanted time for consultations.

A STATEMENT from Red China's premier-foreign minister, Chou En-Lai, broadcast by the Peiping radio, definitely knocked out any plan for ending the Korean war which does not provide for full repatriation of the captured North Koreans and the Chinese "Volunteers."

Peiping already has rejected Menon's proposal as being too American-like.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, obviously irked by attacks from a number of delegates on Moscow's proposal for stopping the fighting, angrily told the committee that "ambiguous attempts are being made to shift the blame for the inevitable collapse of the Indian resolution on the Soviet Union."

Chou En-Lai in China and Vishinsky here agreed in their denunciations of the United States stand for voluntary repatriation and the compromise offered by Menon, which has been amended to make it acceptable to the US.

Communist China Endorses Russia's Proposal for Peace

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Communist China today endorsed the Soviet Union's proposal for a Korean settlement as the only road to peace in the Orient.

Peiping broadcast a statement by Chou En-Lai, Chinese premier and foreign minister, echoing the words of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky to the United Nations.

Chou denounced not only the United States stand in favor of voluntary repatriation of prisoners of war, but an Indian compromise proposal which Vishinsky denounced and rejected Monday.

Before the Soviet rejection, there had been an impression among diplomats that China had given some sort of go-ahead to the Indians to make the proposal. The Soviet press lost no time in denouncing the Indian proposal, and even Vishinsky's speech came well before there was any public indication of Peiping's rejection.

LIKE VISHINSKY, Chou insisted on the principle of full repatriation of all North Korean and Chinese "volunteer" prisoners of war, whether or not the prisoners want to be sent home. The United States and other Western nations oppose forcible repatriation. This is the issue upon which the armistice negotiations have been bogged down for a full year.

The Soviet resolution before the UN proposes a cease-fire in Korea to be followed by a political conference of Red China, Red North Korea, South Korea, The Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France, India, Turkey and Canada. The Chinese statement said that the question of repatriating prisoners should be "fulfilled in accordance with the principle of the Geneva convention"—which means full repatriation.

Public Warned About Egg Yolks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Federal Food and Drug administration issued a warning to the public today to discontinue using Swift's canned dried egg yolk.

John L. Thurston, acting Federal security administrator, said salmonella-type organisms, a kind of bacteria, have been found in some of the cans.

Foods contaminated with salmonella germs may cause gastric upsets, diarrhea, stomach cramps, fever, nausea and vomiting, the Government agency said in a statement. The effect on infants can be quite serious.

The Food and Drug administration's warning was directed especially at parents of small children, physicians and food distributors.

Dr. M. W. Conway, hospital superintendent, said he was convinced she had help.

Both nurses being sought had worked in Winnie's ward. They were known to have been friends of the red-haired trunk-killer of 21 years ago.

DEPUTY SHERIFF Herb Barnes said the nurses, after leaving the hospital's employ, had lived together in Phoenix until moving to Tucson the past summer.

Search for Mrs. Judd and the nurses centered in the Tucson area, 125 miles south of Phoenix. Airports were checked and highway patrolmen watched the roads.

Theft of a car from in front of a hospital cook's home about the time Mrs. Judd fled last night was dismissed as not having any connection with the escape plot.

THREE EMPLOYEES in the ward in which Mrs. Judd had been confined were reported to have been dismissed today. This followed out a hospital warning that escape of any patient would result in dismissals.

Gov. Howard Pyle called on Dr. Conway for a full report of the notorious slayer's breakout. He said he was advised that Mrs. Judd, except for the few minutes in which she escaped, had been under constant guard since her last flight in February of this year.

McGranery decided on suit against Ricci

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Atty. Gen. McGranery today announced a decision to start denaturalization proceedings against Anthony Ricci, New York underworld figure who was investigated by the Senate Crime committee.

McGranery said the suit to strip Ricci, also known as Tony Gobel, of his American citizenship will be filed in the Federal District court at Brooklyn, where Ricci lives.

It will be the ninth such proceeding against underworld characters in the attorney general's program for ridding the country of some 100 persons regarded as undesirable.

POLICE SEEK 2 NURSES IN JUDD ESCAPE

Believe Murderess Had
Help in Sixth Break
For Freedom

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 28 (AP)—Two nurses formerly employed at the State Hospital for the Insane were hunted today as possible accomplices in the sixth escape of murderess Winnie Ruth Judd from the institution.

Mrs. Judd, 48, got out last night by squeezing through a 15-inch square hole cut in the heavy window screen of a first-floor ward bath room.

Dr. M. W. Conway, hospital superintendent, said he was convinced she had help.

Both nurses being sought had worked in Winnie's ward. They were known to have been friends of the red-haired trunk-killer of 21 years ago.

DEPUTY SHERIFF Herb Barnes said the nurses, after leaving the hospital's employ, had lived together in Phoenix until moving to Tucson the past summer.

Search for Mrs. Judd and the nurses centered in the Tucson area, 125 miles south of Phoenix. Airports were checked and highway patrolmen watched the roads.

Theft of a car from in front of a hospital cook's home about the time Mrs. Judd fled last night was dismissed as not having any connection with the escape plot.

EX-QUEEN ELENA OF ITALY DIES; EXILED IN 1946

Blessing Is Given for Nation; Body Lies In State

MONTPELLIER, France, Nov. 28 (AP)—Italy's ex-Queen Elena, 79, who was the daughter, wife and mothers of monarchs, died today with a blessing on her lips for the nation which exiled her in 1946.

The tall, statuesque expatriate, born a princess of Montenegro, died of an embolism—a clot in the blood stream—at St. Comes hospital in Montpellier, where she underwent a secrecy-shrouded operation for cancer two weeks ago.

Within an hour her body, dressed in black, was laid in state on a bed in her two-story villa overlooking the Mediterranean.

Lucid to the last, she blessed her sister, the princess of Battenberg, and her lady in waiting, Princess Iacarina, pronounced a further blessing on her children and ended by invoking divine intercession for the people of Italy.

SHE RECEIVED the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic church from the chaplain of the Dominican convent at Montpellier.

Elena was the widow of Vittorio Emanuele III. She helped him rule Italy almost half a century and left with him upon his abdication in 1946 for Egypt, where he died Dec. 28, 1947.

Her son, ex-King Umberto, ruled Italy in the few weeks between Vittorio Emanuele's abdication and the establishment of a republic. Umberto was visiting in Zurich, Switzerland, at the time of her death. He flew immediately to Geneva and took a train for Montpellier.

Elena was the sixth of the 11 children of King Nicholas and Queen Milena of Montenegro, a tiny Balkan kingdom that is now part of Yugoslavia.

Since 1949 she had been a celebrity in this city for two reasons, her generosity in charitable work and her prowess in fishing.

She prepared her own lines and hooks, chose her bait, strung her own poles and often went out alone in a small boat, to the alarm of townfolk.

Elena was educated in Russia. She spent her girlhood in the brilliant court of Czar Alexander III, her royal godfather.

She met Vittorio Emanuele, then Prince of Naples, on a holiday cruise in the eastern Mediterranean. She stood half a foot taller at five feet nine. Romantic Italians approved their engagement as a love match. A member of the orthodox faith, she became a Roman Catholic. The two were married in Rome Oct. 24, 1896.

ALSO IN to pick up her $2.50 was Mrs. Betty Martin, 213 High street, whose ringed photo appeared in the Thanksgiving Day issue of The Mercury.

Mrs. Martin said she would have been in to claim her award earlier, but was busy cooking the chicken which she bought when her picture was snapped by The Mercury photographer.

HER LUCKY MOMENT also came at the Bahr arcade where she was shopping at the Bahr arcade, High and Charlotte street with neighbor, Mrs. Anna Barndt, 524 North Franklin street, the past Wednesday afternoon when she saw her photo snapped as she was leaving the building.

Although this was not the first prize she has ever won, it was the first cash award for Mrs. Rosenberg.

"This is the first time I ever won anything," said the pretty young wife and mother of 3-year-old Candace Lane Martin.

'Watch Dog' Council Over Papers Is Killed

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The House of Commons today killed a bill to set up a council with "watch dog" powers over British newspapers and news agencies. The action came on a technicality.

According to its author, Laborite C. M. Simmons, the bill was designed to guard freedom of the press, maintain ethical standards among newsmen and prevent the concentration of news organs in few hands. The council would have been empowered to criticize journalistic lapses.

Assistant Stabilizer Suggests Suspension

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The nation's assistant price stabilizer proposed today that price controls on consumer goods and all wage controls be suspended within 90 days.

The memorandum, written by Edward F. Phelps Jr., assistant director of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS), drew a swift challenge from Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam, who called it "premature."

Phelps' recommendations collided squarely with views expressed by his immediate boss, the outgoing Price Stabilizer Tighe Woods. Submitting his resignation to become effective tomorrow, Woods recently had called for tougher price controls than the law now allows.

Phelps' proposal, addressed as a memorandum to Putnam, argued that suspension of the controls would not bring excessive price increases in the near future and might, in fact, tend to hold down the cost of living.

ALL THIS developed after Louis Salamaña, head of the Fifth Federal Police section, told a reporter for the newspaper El Mercurio that a Mrs. Carmen Molina, 32, gave birth to seven girls at her home.

Among those taken in was Sen. Salvador Allende, president of Chile's Medical college. He told newsmen he had been advised that only medical personnel would be allowed to see the children to prevent possible infection.

Newspapers were out with extras and the Health ministry was promising aid to the family before Salamaña wofully announced it was all a "vulgar hoax."

ALL SANTIAGO afternoon newspapers printed vehement editorials protesting against the false information, which spread rapidly throughout Chile and abroad.

Reporters who spent the night in front of the clinic where mother and babies were supposed to have been confined were particularly irritated. They planned protests to President Gen. Carlos Ibanez because the police backed up the student stunt.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 28 (AP)—A 2-year old black bear, named Bosco, is all set to hibernate for the winter in a farm woodlot near Rushville, Mo.

Bosco escaped three weeks ago from a St. Joseph drive-in theater and, although reared in captivity, apparently has quickly adopted the ways of his wild brethren.

Two boys, hunting rabbits today, saw Bosco stick his head out of a den among some logs and rocks. The boys spread the alarm and a number of volunteers tried to capture the bear.

They took the cage from the theater to the scene and tried to lure Bosco out of his den with some dead rabbits, but the bear didn't want to be bothered.

The amateur bear-hunters gave up for the night. Meanwhile, the bear's owner, Beverly Miller of Kansas City, said at his home last night that he would go to St. Joseph in the morning, round up a couple of his employees and they would capture the bear.

Septuplet Hoax Fools Escaped Black Bear Everybody as Chilean Set to Hibernale Students Admit Prank

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 28 (AP)—Chile's great septuplet hoax had the Federal police hopping mad to night.

Director General Jorge Ardiles ordered a searching investigation aimed at punishing all responsible for inducing newspapers to print long, sensational stories about the birth of seven daughters to a Chilean woman.

It turned out that the first hunch of skeptics here was on the beam. When the original report turned up last night, the skeptics were inclined to blame it on students celebrating their annual festival honoring the arrival of Spring in the Southern hemisphere.

But almost everybody was taken in when newspapers came out with banner headlines and stories carrying detailed descriptions of the event, even to the hours of birth, the attending midwife and the placing of the "septuplets" in the care of a noted physician.

ALL THIS developed after Louis Salamaña, head of the Fifth Federal Police section, told a reporter for the newspaper El Mercurio that a Mrs. Carmen Molina, 32, gave birth to seven girls at her home.

Brink's Case Witness Ordered to Answer

BOSTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—A witness before a Federal grand jury believed to be hearing evidence in the $1,219,000 Brinks, incorporated, robbery in 1950 was ordered today by Judge Francis J. W. Ford to answer a prosecutor's questions.

The witness, taken from the grand jury room to Judge Ford's session shortly before noon, was identified as Joseph A. Gusciora of Stoughton.

It was on the Stoughton town dump that investigators found acetylene-cut pieces of a light delivery truck which the Federal Bureau of Investigation suspects was used in the Brink's robbery.

Asst. US Atty. Edward D. Hassan told Judge Ford that Gusciora had given his name and address before the grand jury but had refused to answer all other questions "on the grounds it would tend to incriminate me." Hassan repeated to the court some of his questions. But he did not say what case the grand jury was considering.

The souls of emperors and cobblers are cast in the same mold... The same reason that makes us urinate with a neighbor causes a war between princes. — Michael de Montaigne.

How to Please 'em

THANKSGIVING'S over, and now you'll be traipsing to Pottstown's shopping center to do your Christmas shopping. Best place in the world to do it. No mercantile tax, or nothin'!

Want some advice? Wives preparing to buy gifts for their husbands should remember that he is a stick-in-the-mud at heart, with little interest in radical experimentation on his wardrobe.

If you overhear him mention he guesses he needs a new bathrobe, get him a bathrobe just like the old one. He does not want a new-type terry-cloth sarong, or a modified Swedish parka with thigh fasteners, or a silk lounging coat like Charles Boyer wears. He probably doesn't want fringe on it, either.

And a few special words to husbands: Women are magnificent hint givers. They rarely leave out essentials.

You may hear something like this: "There's a lovely royal blue flannel skirt, gored with the cutest fawn-grey buttons, advertised at Smith's today, and only $28.95."

Get all that down, and you're in. Don't get fouled up on colors. To a woman there are no simple colors. All have adjectives in front of them and become things like watermelon pink or desert tan.

Be certain, too, if you venture into cosmetics, that you have the straight dope.

The stuff may look alike to you but, brother, you couldn't do worse than improvise on Peter-of-the-Plaza's Dawn-In-the-Springtime Early Peach Powder No. 23 for Extra-dry Skin.

Watch Christmas Shoppers

WITH the big rush getting bigger day by day, Christmas shoppers increasingly are adding to the congestion and traffic hazards in Pottstown's midtown business section.

The many elderly persons and very young children in these shopping throngs, the unusually early arrival of darkness at this season, personal preoccupation with buying problems, inadvertent thoughtlessness, etc., further complicate the safety problem.

Pedestrians and motorists alike should be unusually vigilant and cautious in order to help prevent an upsurge in accidents.

Pedestrian and vehicular traffic is particularly heavy right now and it behooves all drivers to be extremely careful in passing through the shopping district.

Care should be exercised at all intersections, because bundle-laden shoppers have a habit of doing the unexpected.

Jay-walkers, too, may be found in abundance, appearing from between parked cars and ambling across busy streets preoccupied with their thoughts.

It is a known but little appreciated fact that many of those who annually are included in Christmas shopping throngs are unused to heavy traffic.

This applies particularly to elderly persons who normally leave shopping chores to other members of the family. It is only natural for them to become confused and bewildered.

Special pains should be taken to insure their safety.

The annual pre-Christmas accident toll can be materially lessened through co-operation of walkers and drivers. Saving a few seconds or minutes should not be permitted to outweigh considerations of safety.

Unscrambling the Egg

BRITAIN has taken the first step toward unscrambling the egg, in the face of Laborite threats to re-scramble it if they should return to power. Parliament voted to return the nationalized truck lines to private ownership.

The method presumably will be to auction the lines in appropriate units, accepting in payment the bonds paid for them when they were socialized by the Labor government in 1947.

The test vote on the Tory promise to un-socialize is less conclusive than will be the one on returning the steel industry. Truck units are comparatively small, and a change of management is a less critical matter.

Nevertheless, it does prove that the road back is not impassable. The British people will have had an opportunity to observe the comparative merits of private and public operation. That gives the enterprise system an actual contrast with Utopian theory, and at least a fighting chance to preserve itself against future onslaughts of Socialist politicians. It can hardly hope for more.

Grampaw Oakley

PUNKIN CORNERS, November 28.

Dear Sir 'n' Brother: Wal, right now I'm not interested in the number of shopping days left until Christmas. My greatest concern is how many more hash days until the end of turkey!

It took a long while. We went through October and almost November. With only two days to go, Old Man Winter finally cracked through the line! And say: Wonder how Grandma's old music box, stored in the attic, regards that upstart interloper, the inside TV set!

Hopin' you air the same, GRAMPANED OAKLEY

READERS SAY:

Reader Pleads For Reverent Christmas

Christmas Should Be Holy

To the Editor: As we are approaching closer to the day and spirit of Christmas, let us try and receive it in dignity and reverence it deserves, and with humbleness.

Please let its holy and sacred songs be adored and not commercialized as they have been in past years on noisy loudspeakers. The Christ child had no publicity campaign when He was born. Our ministerial association should also admire the spirit of this season and aid by preaching this very subject to their congregations from pulpits.

The parties given in plants for the kiddies usually turn out to be mockeries with fathers and mothers drinking. What a sight it must be for the innocents to behold a tipsy Santa Claus! Is this a true Christmas spirit for our times? Gluttony, drink and floor shows in some of our clubs to usher in the birth of our Christ child is not the way to observe the holy holiday.

I say, ministers and businessmen, the honky-tonk and debauching way of celebrating the birth of our Christ king cannot be condoned or passed off lightly. Don't let the glitter of gold and profit begot the vision of faith and decency of all associations.

Pottstown SERIOUS MINDED

Give Them Time

To the Editor: So Economy Minded ("Airport is Puzzler," Reader's 'Say, November 24) thinks a lot of money is being wasted at the Pottstown Airport. Well, anyone who has a rural post office address and can't distinguish a barn from a hanger is a very poor judge of how an airport should be managed.

As for the wide open field, I wonder where he or she would like to be located. Maybe between High and King streets or some other congested area. More than one visiting airman has complimented the manager on the fine runways.

Check some of the towns and cities the size of Pottstown and even larger and compare them with Pottstown Municipal. With a lot of co-operation from a few and a little patience from the public, Pottstown and Stowe will soon be proud of their airport.

After all, Rome wasn't built in a day. Douglassville R D 1

WASHINGTON

Brass Will Gripe To Ike On Korean War Blunders

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—When President-elect Eisenhower reverts to his earlier role as military commander on his visit to Korea, he will get an earful from old and trusted comrades in arms on the Truman-Acheson failure to strive for an all-out blow against the Communist forces. He will be listening to fighting men instead of politicians and diplomats.

Generals Mark Clark and James A. Van Fleet will submit a program for a Winter buildup and Spring offensive that has been opposed by their superiors at Washington, including the White House, the State Department and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They will support their arguments for more aggressive action with facts and figures not generally known here.

In their opinion, the conflict will drag along for several stalemate years, unless the United Nations forces are permitted to press for destruction of the enemy.

The situation at the front has reached a point where it resembles the 1914-1918 trench deadlock of World War I. They will insist on a war of movement, such as Eisenhower waged in North Africa and Western Europe.

THE COMMUNISTS, Generals Clark and Van Fleet will inform Ike, have used the peace negotiations lull to build a line of fortresses impregnable to frontal assault.

The enemy has massed a million men, dug caves and fortresses in depth, and obtained the latest in anti-aircraft batteries and planes from Russia. Our casualties are mounting under barrages and ground fire as heavy as we encountered in many World War II battles.

The plain purpose of these preparations, in the military view, is to continue to tie down and to waste away the 500,000 troops which we and our UN allies have mobilized in this remote bit of real estate.

Perhaps even more important in Moscow's long-range strategy, it is designed to create disillusionment with the costly cold war in this country and among our overseas allies. Indeed, it has already had that effect in certain respects.

The two Far Eastern commanders are ready with a program that may change radically the basic scheme of our strategy in the cold war, if Eisenhower decides that it is feasible. It would enable the United States to play the same role as Russia, which husbands her manpower and other resources while forcing Western nations to fight on the perimeter of the Soviet empire.

SPECIFICALLY, the Clark-Van Fleet formula will call for the training and equipment of at least five more South Korean divisions, making sixteen in all. It is believed that they could be serviceable for the front line by Spring, provided a small part of the arms and supplies allocated to Europe were transferred to Korea.

In addition, they will propose that at least two divisions of Chiang Kai-shek's Formosan forces be shipped to the peninsula. According to the reports of the US military mission on Formosa, they could give a good account of themselves, especially in ground fighting.

The plan to be presented to Eisenhower does not contemplate an advance to the Yalu or the bombing of hostile bases in Manchuria, for this expansion of the battleground might provoke Russia to take a more active part in the conflict.

It is not believed, however, that Stalin is prepared for such a step now. He has his own troubles at home and among his satellites.

Complete accomplishment of the Clark-Van Fleet mission would require a landing in force behind the enemy's line, something like MacArthur's surprise descent on Inchon. With a frontal and rear attack simultaneously, the objective would be to rout the foe, cut up his lines of supply, destroy his forces or force a panicky retreat.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

DORIS D., 26, has been married for three years. "Dr. Crane, I am so unhappy," she stated tearfully, "for I always wanted a baby."

"But we have never done anything to prevent having one, yet I am not pregnant."

"So I went to a doctor last week, and he told me my womb was tipped. He said he could operate on me and straighten it. The cost would be $250, plus the hospital bill of probably $100."

"Dr. Crane, is this suspension operation of the womb supposed to help a woman become pregnant?"

Yes, that operation is an approved surgical procedure. But surgery should only be resorted to when all other "horse sense" measures have failed.

For example, maybe her husband is sterile? So wouldn't it be foolish for Doris to submit to a major operation, when nothing may be seriously wrong with her?

A TIPPED WOMB is common among women. Millions of them have this condition. Unless the womb is so flexed as to prolong menstruation greatly or cause undue pain and cramps, a tipped womb can usually be ignored.

Doris didn't even know whether her tubes were open or closed. And she hadn't experimented with the "pregnancy wack," which I'll describe below. She didn't know if her husband was sterile or fertile.

I ASKED her for the length of her monthly cycle. It averaged 30 days. The latest modern view holds that the 15th day before the onset of the next expected menstrual period is the most likely time for ovulation.

Ovulation means that an egg (ovum) ruptures free from an ovary. For possibly 24 to 48 hours it is capable of being fertilized by the male spermatozoa, though some investigators think that possibly after 12 hours it has degenerated to such a degree that it cannot become impregnated.

Thus, there may be less than a single day in the entire month when a woman can conceive!

On a 30-day cycle, the 15th day after the last period starts would thus be the ovulation date. But we allow an extra 3 or 4 days on each side of this day to cover the so-called pregnancy week.

A woman on a 21-day cycle would thus be likely to ovulate on the 6th day after the last period starts. A woman on a 28-day cycle on the 13th, etc.

ALL ABOUT THE TOWN

In Three Wars at 53... She's Named...

★ ACTIVE—Paul W. Bare doesn't stay in one place a long time. He was in his Glen Moore home for a few days a couple of weeks ago. That was when he came back from Korea. But he already has moved. Just like he has kept moving since he was a buck private in World War I when he got as far as France for the windup of that great conflict. He has gone a long way since those days, not only in miles, but also in rank. He returned from Korea a lieutenant colonel, which is quite a step from private! His new assignment, Camp Pickett, Va., also is a far cry from Korea, but that's another part of the story...

PAUL W. BARE is a minister. A Methodist minister. He now is a chaplain. He was chaplain to good, old foot soldiers in Korea, the 24th infantry division. He spent 14 months in Korea, and previous to that he was at Camp Schimmelpenninck on the island of Honshu, Japan. There he headed chaplains of three faiths. Chaplain Bare, whose wife, the former Elva Anna Thomas lives in Glen Moore with her parents, is 53 years old. He barely was old enough to join the Army in 1917, but he made it just the same. In World War II he got into North Africa early, went into Italy and finally continental Europe...

★ A GRADUATE of Ursinus, the Rev. Bare entered the Methodist ministry after his graduation from Drew and Crozer theological seminaries. He and Mrs. Bare have three children. Oldest is Dr. Wesley W. Bare, who is a medical doctor and is interning in Philadelphia. Then there's Thomas W., who's a pastor and is in charge of the Belfast-Wind Gap Methodist charge, where the elder Bare served when he was younger. One daughter, Mrs. William T. Cherry, is married to a minister, too, a student at Drew seminary, but pastor the Paoli Methodist church.

SUNSHINE CORNER—Mrs. Paul Faithful, Douglassville RD 1, maternal aunt of 10-year-old Norman Swoyer Jr., Bechtelsville RD 1, reported that the boy faces being bedded for at least a month at home with an acute kidney ailment. He became ill the past Friday. The aunt said greeting cards and messages would go a long way toward brightening his holidays... C. David Miller, 430 Beech street, a student at West Chester State Teachers college, has been selected to play in the all-state collegiate band next month at Franklin and Marshall college. He plays the flute.

★ NOMINATED—Mary Ann Shahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Shahan, 304 Diamond street, has been nominated for the distinction of being in the 1952-53 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Inclusion in the book is based primarily on the student's scholarship, leadership and extra-curricular activity. Miss Shahan is a Senior at Immaculata college, near Malvern. She's been on the student council for the past three years, on the basketball and hockey teams and in the dramatic society. Her major subject is biology. She is a graduate of St. Aloysius parochial school and Reading Catholic High school... Richard F. Weiser, son of Mrs. Horace Shellenberger, 651 Chestnut street, is stationed at the Naval Training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Do Good Also on Sabbath, Jesus Tells Disciples

Pharisees Attempt to Discredit Him, But He Reminds Them of God's Will

The Golden Text

The man with the withered hand.

"Imitate not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God; he that doeth evil hath not seen God."—III John 11.

Scripture—Matthew 12.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"REMEMBER the sabbath day to keep it holy," said the Lord. "It is unholiness to do good deeds, to help others, on the holy day?" Jesus was sternly rebuked for doing just that. No modern physician would dream of neglecting a patient who was seriously ill and suffering, or who had met with an accident on the sabbath. We certainly do not condemn him for "breaking the sabbath," even if he is unable to go to divine service for acting thus; we commend him instead.

Jesus and His disciples went through a corn (wheat) field on one sabbath day, and the disciples, being hungry, began to pick the kernels of the grain and eat them. The ever present Pharisees saw them doing it, and told Jesus, "Behold, Thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the sabbath day."

Now there is nothing in the commandments about going hungry on the sabbath day. Surely the strictest Jews eat on the sabbath, except, of course, on traditional fast days. The Pharisees, however, never let an opportunity slip if they thought they could make Jesus less popular or convict Him of a fault or magnify it into a sin.

Jesus reminded them of what David did when he and those with him came to the tabernacle at Nob on a sabbath, faint and weary, and David asked for food. None was to be had but the shew bread, which only priests were supposed to eat. In the emergency this was given to him and his men, the high priest judging it was better to relieve the hunger of men rather than to keep the letter of the law.

"But I say unto you, That in this place is One greater than the temple."

"But if ye had known what this meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltless."

"For the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath day."

From the field Jesus went to the synagogue, and there He beheld a man with a useless, withered hand. Thus, the Pharisees, decided was another chance for them to discredit Christ, so they asked Him if it was lawful to heal on the sabbath days?

If you had one sheep and it fell into a pit on the sabbath day, would you not go and get it?

On one Sabbath day, Jesus and His disciples walked through a field of grain. The disciples, being hungry, ate grains of wheat. The Pharisees said they had broken the Sabbath, but Jesus said He was also Lord of the Sabbath.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

In the synagogue Jesus beheld a man who had a withered hand. The Pharisees watched to see if He would heal the man on the Holy Day. He did, saying, "It is lawful to do well on the Sabbath day."

"Then was brought unto Him one possessed with a devil, blind and dumb; and He healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. And the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David?"

While Jesus preached to the multitudes, it was reported to Him that His mother and brethren stood without. Jesus said that whosoever did His Father's will was His mother, sister and brother.

And, behold, there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last. — (St. Luke XIII, 30.)

Sometimes it seems that we set too great store by the temporal "firsts" among us — the successful and famous who make the headlines. But the promise here made by Our Lord shall comfort and sustain the lowly and humble who daily live by His precepts — in faith, and in the certainty of everlasting reward.

"CHARITY" ON CANVAS

A widow and her three hungry children huddling forlornly against the marble column of a church! That's the way an artist portrayed "Charity."

How shall we interpret this tragic scene? Is it symbol of the downtrodden's faith in the generosity of Christians everywhere? Or is it a bitter study of men's failure to express their religion in acts of love.

The ragged children, asleep after a long and fruitless wait, seem to imply the latter!

Nevertheless, this painting is a bold challenge to Christian stewardship. For the blessed work of the Church, in charity and in the spread of its Gospel, is either limited or expanded by our own outreach of love.

Next Sunday will be Stewardship Sunday in many churches. The physical and spiritual welfare of millions will be at stake when you set your personal goal in weekly giving to the Church.

Einstein Is Stumped On Attorney's Query About His Occupation

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—Albert Einstein went to court today.

The renowned, white-haired, physicist, 73, sat down gingerly on a witness stand in behalf of an old friend, physicist Gustav Bucky, 72.

Bucky has brought a patent infringement suit against a New York firm, claiming insufficient royalties for a highly technical medical camera which he developed.

Bucky's attorney, Paul Kolisch, asked Einstein to give his occupation and qualifications.

For a moment Einstein was stumped.

THEN FEDERAL Judge Sylvester J. Ryan exclaimed to Kolisch,

Oh, now, do we really need that? That information is almost a matter of common knowledge, I would think."

Einstein relaxed a bit and under questioning said that Bucky had solved a "very difficult" problem in inventing his camera. He launched into a discussion of its workings so technical and complex that reporters found their notes trailing off into unscientific doodlings.

Pottstown, Area Churches Plan Advent Services

Tomorrow Marks Start of New Year; 4 Weeks of Special Rites to Follow

The beginning of Advent will be observed tomorrow with special services in Pottstown's churches.

Advent Sunday, which begins the new Church year, heralds the birth of Christ and ushers in a four-week season of reverence for Christians.

Protestant churches will mark the day with Holy Communion and sermons with the Advent theme. Extra masses and special devotions will be held in Catholic churches.

Members of Grace Lutheran church will have an opportunity to receive Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. tomorrow.

THE SERMON by the Rev. Edgar S. Brown Jr., pastor, will be the same for each service.

Text for the sermon is taken from St. Paul's words to the Corinthians: "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till He come."

In addition to the rededication of those already in the church, 12 new members will be received into the congregation of Grace Lutheran tomorrow at the 10:30 a. m. service. This will bring the total of new members received by the church in 1952 to 47 persons.

Christ Episcopal will observe the beginning of the Advent period with a Holy Communion and healing service tomorrow at 8 a. m.

The Rev. George A. Liner, rector, will preach on "The Unknown God" at the 11 o'clock morning prayer service. Holy Baptisms will take place in the church at 12:15 p. m.

St. Peter's Lutheran, Stowe, will have an Advent Wreath in the church tomorrow as a symbol of the season.

Suspended in the chancel by a violet ribbon, the large wreath of spruce boughs will bear four white candles. One candle will be lighted at tomorrow morning's service. One more will be lighted on each successive Sunday in Advent.

The custom of hanging the Advent Wreath originated in Germany and the Scandinavian countries. This is the first time such a wreath has been placed in the Stowe church.

At Transfiguration Lutheran the Advent theme will be combined with the annual thanksgiving service of the Women's Missionary society. Members of the society will bring their offering boxes to the morning service where they will be blessed by the Rev. Gustave W. Weber, supply pastor.

Sen. Taft Working On Law Revisions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—A long series of proposed amendments to the Taft-Hartley law is being drafted by Senator Taft of Ohio, one of the authors of the labor legislation.

Two of the proposed revisions are along lines favored by President-Elect Eisenhower.

Aides said today that Taft still stands on the basic principles of the law, which regulates a broad field of management-labor relations. But among the changes he is willing to support are two favored by Eisenhower.

One of these amendments would be a requirement that company officials take the non-Communist oath, as union leaders now must do, if they want to use the act.

The other would remove the ban on voting in a representation election by strikers who have been replaced in their jobs. Eisenhower has called this a possible "union-busting" section of the act. Taft doesn't agree but says the revision is desirable anyway.

(From the 124th Psalm)

Nothing Can Stop Him

—Mercury Staff Photo

To show that nothing can stop his liking for deer hunting, John Nuss, of Douglassville, who is legless, sights in his rifle in anticipation of deer season which starts Monday morning. Washington Auxer, Pottstown RD 2, behind the wheelchair, is one of Nuss's friends who will transport him to French Creek State park where Nuss hopes to get a buck. (Story on Page 1).

7-Point Buck, Shot Out of Season, Found in Lower Pottsgrove

A big, seven-point buck that had been shot out of season was found yesterday morning near Route 422 at the eastern end of Lower Pottsgrove township. Its meat was spoiled and it had to be buried.

Richard E. Blair, deputy game protector called in by Lower Pottsgrove Police Chief Harry G. Chrusch, said the deer had been killed by a bullet or bullet-like shotgun slug that hit it in its right ear.

He said he believed the deer was killed yesterday, probably by a hunter who shot at it deliberately, then became afraid of carrying the carcass away. Shooting deer out of season carries a $100 fine, Blair noted.

Whoever killed it shot it within a few hundred feet both of houses and the busy highway, Blair reported.

THE GAME violation was reported to Chief Chrusch by Frank Szabo and Paul Sawchuck, both Pottstown RD 4, partners in Helen's restaurant along Route 422 between Sanatoga and Limerick. Hunters told them of seeing it yesterday morning.

Show them the Way . . . this week

He puts his hand in yours with such confidence, looks up with so much pride. This is the way you go together—to a neighbor's . . . to the store . . . to take a walk . . .

Where are you going this time? Could it be . . . to church?

That's the shortest long trip in the world. Perhaps only a block or two. But it can lead all the way to Peace of Mind.

Your mind may not have been at peace in many ways, with one particularly disturbing thought returning time after time . . .

The little fellow . . . starting to grow up . . . starting to grow up without formal religious teaching . . . without training in knowledge of God.

What would the world be without God? What will our children be, without training in knowledge of God? If we let this happen, and something goes wrong, how can we ever face them in their hour of need?

So this week, you and he together are taking the first step. Your greatest gift to your children is faith in God.

Car Lot Will Occupy Shorty's Diner Site

A new used car lot and show room was planned for West High street after a real transaction yesterday.

Tony Coscia, for four years operator of Tony and Gene's Used Car lot on the north side of West High street, east of Berks street, bought the new location.

It was the property on which stood Shorty's diner, operated for six years by Roy G. Smith and Marion Clemens. The land consists of 116 feet in frontage on High street and depth of 165 feet.

Coscia purchased the property through Realtor James J. Moore, who also sold the diner six years ago. Coscia said he planned extensive improvements to the one-story building which now is used as a diner and renovations which will include a show room.

The diner will close in two or three weeks.

Spat and Slipper Ball Has Color, Animals and Special Thrill of Circus

Like an immense beacon, a neon-outlined spat and slipper outside Brookside country club beckoned throngs of formally-clad Pottstowners last night to the annual Winter ball.

Arriving from private dinner and cocktail parties, dancers entered the club between two glowing painted the traditional Spat and Slipper colors, black and white.

Black and white pennants applied with more spats, slippers and top hats clustered the doorway, where a bouquet of white chrysanthemums was placed upon a silver-spangled table.

On either side of the hallway rose large, silver and black net framed circles of black, painted with white circus figures.

Steamers of black and white formed a false ceiling for the ballroom, where the six-piece orchestra played between two giant French poodles, one black, one white.

Between four trapezes swinging from the ceiling swayed clusters of white balloons. More black and white clowns frolicked along the wall.

Silver spangles were sprinkled everywhere throughout the ballroom and on the white-clothed tables in the supper room.

Each table bore, between two lighted white candles, a miniature white poodle balancing a silver ball upon its nose.

Along the walls, black silhouettes of gorillas, lions and tigers peered from behind the white bars of black circus wagons.

Brookside's porch was transferred into a sideshow tent, with a false wall of canvas and white freaks — Tom Thumb, the fat lady and the fire eater — painted on black walls.

Silver spangles were used for a glittering saw-dust floor.

Reversing the black and white shirt fronts of the gentlemen, Mrs.

Clyde Umstead's gown of faillé dark brown taffeta gown. Beige and taffeta had a black front panel running the full length of her cocktail gown — from hem to halter neckline.

White faillé accented the dashing black, and rhinestone buttons down the bodice and on her shoulders reflected her sparkly earrings, necklace and black pump clips.

With her brownette coloring Mrs. Grant J. Rohrbach chose a flattering soft brown lace over-and earrings. Her slippers were copper.

Dr. Harry Green's wife, Jane Green's, auburn, hair glowed in contrast with the milky white lace of her bodice and her black full-length taffeta skirt.

A dazzling copper velvet skirt swirled around Mrs. Ellis Harlan's hips. Copper velvet was cut in a bertha collar, fitted bodice and long sleeves.

Warm gold was mixed with the coolness of pearls in her choker

and earrings. Her slippers were copper.

live oh's and ah's.

Mrs. Patrizi thinks it was the "and people call us dumb animals look" on their poodles and caged animals that provoked the most admiration.

She provoked no little admiration herself, from her pale blue stoled shoulders to matching satin slippers.

Olga Scaringi and Paul Geisler Say Vows

Chantilly lace of pale blue formed the strapless top of the bride's gown, and she wore a matching lace bolero. Her skirt was of net over satin, and she wore matching mitts and headpiece.

For her bridal bouquet, the bride carried an old fashioned arrangement of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the couple's new apartment, 52 Fairview street, Stowe.

To leave for their honeymoon in Atlantic City, the bride chose a black gabardine suit with black accessories. Her corsage was fashioned of carnations from her bridal bouquet.

Having attended West Pottsgrove High school, the bride is an employee of the Iris Knitting mills.

Her husband, who studied at Pottstown High school, works for Doehler-Jarvis corporation.

DDT Oil Solution Destroys Season-Scorning Insects

Clothes moths and carpet beetles recognize no season in a well-heated house.

To avoid damage to wool rugs and carpets from these pesky insects, suggests Mrs. Della Short, spray rugs and carpets with a 5 percent DDT oil solution.

Home economics extension representative of Montgomery county, she says the spray must be spread evenly over top and bottom surfaces so all fibers are moistened.

One application, if those hard-to-get spots under furniture are not omitted, will give protection to wool carpets and rugs for at least a year.

A hand sprayer does a good job of applying the solution, she adds.

Flasher-Mullen Nuptials Solemnized

Navy blue and bridal white were chosen to form the symbolic color theme for Joan K. Flasher's, Chester Springs, marriage to William C. Mullen, King of Prussia, the past week.

Mr. Mullen, a Navy gunner's mate, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mullen, King of Prussia. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Flasher, Chester Springs.

St. Vincent's Baptist church, Chester Springs, was the setting for the double ring service. The Rev. Milton Van Slyke officiated.

Bride and groom repeated their vows before a candlelit altar decked with blue and white flowers and branches of palms.

White satin streamers, caught with garlands of forget-me-nots, lined the aisles.

Soloist was Iris Gill, whose nuptial songs were accompanied by organist Mrs. Warren Miller.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of oyster white satin and antique lace.

Her fitted bodice of lace over satin was made with an illusion neckline and long, pointed sleeves. Her floor-length skirt extended to a cathedral train paneled with lace.

Cascading from a rhinestone studded Juliet cap, her illusion net veil was fingertip length, and the bride carried atop her white Bible a white orchid entwined with satin streamers and blue forget-me-nots.

Irene Ullman, Phoenixville, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Margaret Flasher, Spring City, and Helen Flasher, Phoenixville, both cousins of the bride.

Another of the bride's cousin, Elaine Beard, Malvern, was junior bridesmaid.

All wore gowns of blue velvet. Their old fashioned white bouquets were tied with satin streamers and blue forget-me-nots.

John Moorehead, Trappe, was best man for his stepbrother.

Ushers were Frederick Decker, Pottstown, Paul Beach, King Manor, and Lloyd Mullen, King of Prussia.

Continuing the blue and white theme, both mothers of the couple wore navy and white.

Mrs. Flasher's frock of taffeta was navy, with matching accessories. She wore a small, fitted hat of white velvet leaves and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Mullen's gown of navy crepe featured matching accessories, and to her shoulder she pinned a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, more than 100 guests were welcomed at a reception held in Caroline Moorehead's Catering firm Trappe.

From the party, the couple left for a honeymoon in the Mayflower hotel, Atlantic City, N. J.

For her going-away costume, the bride chose a navy blue woolen suit with a white nylon blouse, a navy hat and a winter white topper coat. She wore the orchid from her Bible.

Mr. Mullen has served in the Navy for the past 18 months. He is gunner's mate aboard the USS Rockridge.

The bride has worked with her parents in Flasher's restaurant, Spring City.

After their wedding trip, the newlyweds will reside in Newport News, Va., where the bridegroom is stationed.

gift from her husband) a bout which her outfit was planned. Tiny bits of the blue-green stone studded a silver chain; larger bits were imbedded in the silver pendant-piece.

Many undershirts gave her blue tulle skirt that bouffant look. A strapless bodice eliminated a "ny clutter behind the hanging stone."

Her husband was dashing in a pair of elegant grey spats which he insisted were worn by his father when he danced at the old Bachelor's Cotillion!

Blue, from her dancing eyes through a tiny stripe in her burgundy brown gown to satin slippers, must be Mrs. Douglass O'Dell's favorite color.

In waltz-length brown taffeta, her skirt swished over six eyelid-edged petticoats. A stole of taffeta with the same tiny accent stripe of blue draped her bare shoulders and arms. A single strand of rhinestones glittered around her neck.

After the weeks of preparation Mrs. John J. Anastasia and Mrs. Thomas A. McCaslin 3d forgot their worries as co-chairmen and enjoyed themselves in powder blue and grey lace.

Mrs. Anastasia chose silver slippers with her blue net. A filmy stole wreathed her bare shoulders.

Rhinestones glittered on Mrs. McCaslin. They were around her neck, on her ears and upon her grey lace shoulder. Pink net peeked from beneath the grey of her full-length gown.

A white orchid bloomed at the strapless line of Mrs. Carl Binder's black velvet bodice. Black net of her skirt swung down to the floor.

Special separates in felt and jersey were chosen by Mrs. M. B. Edwards. A hand-painted design trimmed her flat white, felt cart-wheel skirt; her black jersey blouse was cut off-the-shoulders.

Ruffled black net was cinched with a black velvet belt for Mrs. Nelson Feroe.

Dancing in time to music for which she and her husband had arranged, Mrs. Elwood Schmeier chose a sweeping black velvet gown. Delicate pink, permanently-pleated net swished through the slit in her divided skirt when she executed a fancy turn.

Mrs. Theodore Kemp danced in champagne net. Her full, gathered skirt was caught with clusters of tiny flowers.

Patron Committeewoman Mrs. C. R. Ellicker presided at her supper table wearing a white taffeta gown styled with an off the shoulder boat neckline.

Special events kept chairman Mrs. Carroll L. Rutter busy as she scampered about the Country club clad in a pink satin strapless frock. She wore rhinestones at her throat and wrist.

Mrs. John Howard, member of the door committee, wore vibrant fuchsia taffeta. Her strapless bodice turned down to a cuff and tied in a bow at her neckline.

Black lace veiled the pleated light blue skirt of Mrs. Melvin Gingrich's strapless evening frock.

Representing the younger set, Marcia Baylor rhumbad in lavender. White eyelet embroidery outlined the strapless top over the bouffant net skirt.

Jane Bridges laughed among her friends in a full length gown of white, her net skirt topped with a sequin studded top.

Festivities at the annual ball lasted until 3, officially. But Spat and Slipper night carries over into today with a 10 a. m. breakfast in the Sunnybrook road home of Mr. and Mrs. John Strob.

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAY
Paul C. Scheier Jr., stationed at Fort Meade, Md., is spending the Thanksgiving weekend with his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul C. Scheier Sr., St. John's and St. Paul's Reformed churches, Stowe.

Good luncheon dish: Line four greased individual casseroles with well-seasoned creamed spinach. Break an egg into each and sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven about 15 minutes, or until the eggs are as firm as you wish them.

Planning to serve shrimp curry? Add a dash of powdered ginger and a tiny bit of sugar to the sauce for that extra flavor. On the condiment tray that accompanies the curry be sure to have crisp crumbled bacon, salted peanuts, chutney, sweet pickled relish and shredded coconut.

Red Cross Blood Chairman Issues Instructions to Donors; 150 Pledged

Harry I. Gilbert, Boyertown branch chairman of the American Red Cross, last night issued instructions to all persons who have volunteered to donate a pint of blood on Tuesday when the Bloodmobile will be located in the Keystone Fire company's Rainbow room from 1 to 6:30 p. m.

He urged everyone not to eat fats such as cream and butter, meats, fried foods and eggs for at least four hours before the time of their appointment. Gilbert suggested eating light refreshments is best during this four-hour period which would include fruits, fruit juices, bread, crackers, dried toast, raw vegetables or vegetables boiled in plain water, jam, jelly, honey, skim milk, black coffee or tea with sugar.

Gilbert said approximately 150 persons have volunteered to donate blood as a "Christmas present for some Korean GI," but added that persons walking in on Tuesday are also welcome. The goal is 200 pints.

The bloodmobile is sponsored by Boyertown Post 3487, VFW, Ladies' auxiliary, Mrs. Mary Hunsberger, president, in co-operation with the local Red Cross. Gilbert praised the auxiliary "for the commendable job they have done in securing the volunteers."

On the right is a living room, 13 by 20 feet, with an open brick fireplace. The dinette is behind the picture window at left. Other rooms downstairs are the kitchen, two big bedrooms, utility room and tile bath. A long hallway divides the bedroom section of the house. An enclosed breezeway connects house and kitchen. A loft with plenty of storage space can be reached through a door at the back of the living room closet. There's an insulated trapdoor to the loft. Other features of the home include a basement with laundry and toilet facilities. Smale is a machiner operator for Stanley G. Flagg and company. That's Mrs. Smale out front.

Members and associates of the Ladies' Bible class, taught by Mrs. P. Wesley Bare, met at her home to elect new officers. Mrs. Lewis McFall, acting as chairman, conducted the election which resulted in Mrs. Lloyd Johnson being elected president; Mrs. Maurice DeGelle, vice president; Mrs. Larue Williamson, secretary; Mrs. Lewis McFall, treasurer. The group voted to contribute to the church fund and to sell Christmas candy.

There were 70 present at Sunday school. Jimmy Williamson contributed to the birthday bank. We should have mentioned the birthdays of Denise Ayers and Nancy Harple.

Army Wants to Beat Midshipmen For Purdue Whose Father Died

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28 (AP)—It was a solemn and grim-lipped Army football team which pulled into Philadelphia today, vowing to "win one for Bill" in the traditional battle with favored Navy tomorrow at Municipal stadium.

Young Bill Purdue, the fleet hurdler who was a star in the upset triumph over Pennsylvania two weeks ago, was scheduled to start at right halfback for the Cadets despite death of his father yesterday in Washington's Walter Reed hospital.

"I feel Dad would have wanted me to play," Purdue said. "Mother told me so."

Bill's father, Brig. Gen. Branner Pace Purdue, 52, had been ill three months with cancer. A West Pointer, he commanded the 120th Infantry Regiment in Europe during World War II and more recently had been stationed in Anchorage, Alaska.

Army's thinly-manned team, still feeling the effects of the 1951 cribbing scandal, arrived by train shortly before noon and held an hour's light workout at the stadium. Navy's 45-man squad followed the Cadets on the field.

The 53rd game between these service elevens will be viewed by a sellout crowd of 102,000, including President Truman and other high officials of government. Millions of others will watch the spectacle on television.

The game is being telecast nationally by the National Broadcasting company and beamed by radio to service men overseas and even behind the Iron Curtain. Kickoff is at 1:30 p. m. Pottstown time.

One eminent old Army grad, however, won't be among the spectators. That is President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower, a second-string halfback who takes pride in the fact he once tackled the great Jim Thorpe.

New York headquarters announced the General has a full schedule of appointments Saturday.

Besides, Gen. Eisenhower will be attending the service classic the next four years in the role of the nation's chief executive.

There were no major developments in either camp and the big, powerful Midshipmen remained a solid seven-point favorite to win their third straight game in the series.

Navy's 39-year-old coach, Eddie Erdelatz, who has never lost to Army, acknowledged that he was deeply concerned.

"I am frankly worried," Erdelatz said. "We have been put in the role of favorites and that is a disastrous predicament in this series."

My boys are in good shape but we expect Army to be at a psychological peak and plenty tough."

EARL (RED) BLAIK, the straight-backed Army colonel who is coaching the Navy team, said:

"The first thing I knew about the fight was when I read it in the papers. I don't see how I could be in shape to fight Flanagan by Dec. 10. My understanding was that I'd be allowed to get in fairly good shape, perhaps have a few tuneup goes and then fight a nationally televised fight, preferably with Gavilan."

Cleveland promoter Larry Atkins announced on Nov. 24 that the Davey-Flanagan fight card would be held on the December date. Today, Atkins and his aides could add little to the question of whether the fight was on or off.

At Chicago, Truman Gibson, an IBC official, said the IBC had gotten an okay from Davey's manager, Hector Knowles, for the Flanagan fight.

Gibson expressed displeasure over what he termed Davey's insistence that he be allowed to "keep on managing myself." Gibson said there was a "fine line distinction" taken by Davey in agreeing verbally to fight Flanagan and then hedging because no contract had been signed.

The 26-year-old Davey has gone undefeated in his pro career, with one one draw marring the record.

At Chicago, Truman Gibson, an IBC official, said the IBC had gotten an okay from Davey's manager, Hector Knowles, for the Flanagan fight.

Tony Despirito Wins 5 More Races; Need 26 More to Establish New Record

LINCOLN, R. I., Nov. 28 (AP)—Tony Despirito, the nation's leading jockey, won on five favorites while riding in all nine races today at Lincoln Downs.

As a result, the 17-year-old Lawrence, Mass. apprentice needs but 26 more winners this season to break the national record of 388 set by Walter Miller back in 1906. Despirito has high hopes of boosting his current 363 total by riding in seven of the 10 events on Lincoln Downs' closing-day program tomorrow.

After being out-distanced in the first three races, Despirito made consecutive trips to the winner's circle on Mrs. Eddie Pinto's Ringneck, Irving Gushen's Mona and I. J. White's Beaming Light.

Despirito then finished first aboard Lyle Whiting's Fortnight and Henry Shapiro's Rissan in the eighth and ninth races.

After completing tomorrow's assignments here, Despirito will move on to Bowie for a brief stay before continuing on for a Florida winter campaign.

Mrs. James McGee's Occupancy won the featured event at Bowie in the role of a 3-5 choice.

The Bay Filly eked out a head verdict over T. F. White's Big Print in the three-quarter mile dash but there were several anxious moments for her backers in the crowd of 10,159 when a foul claim was registered.

THE CLAIM was lodged by Jockey Oliver Cutshaw aboard Big Print, who contended that Occupancy with Joe Licausi in the saddle, drifted out in the final furlong impeding the second horse.

After viewing the film patrol the stewards permitted the original finish to stand.

Phantom Farm's press was third a half-length off Big Print and three-quarters of a length before Mrs. Evelyn Sears' Ocean Breeze.

Occupancy paid $3.20, $2.60, $2.20.

Fined for Profanity
LINCOLN, R. I., Nov. 28 (AP)—Tony De Spirito, the leading rider of winners in the country this year, today paid a $100 fine levied against him by the stewards at Lincoln Downs for "using profane language" while returning to the jockey's quarters after weighing in for the fourth race Wednesday.

Five winners today gave De Spirito 363 for the year.

Graph for Gardening

Evergreens Need Winter Aid

Tall growing evergreens of pyramidal or columnar form should have their Winter protection so that their branches do not get broken by snow, ice and heavy winds, thus marring their perfection of line.

The accompanying Garden-Graph shows how to support tall evergreens by tying the branches together with cloth strips, tape or soft twine and then binding the plant to a supporting stake.

Rhododendrons, mountain laurel, andromedas and other broad-leaved evergreens should have ample moisture about their roots before the ground freezes. After the ground freezes the plants should be protected by a mulch to prevent thawing and freezing and heaving.

If you have oak trees use the fallen leaves for mulches around rhododendrons. They are considered best for the purpose. Straw will serve if you cannot obtain oak leaves.

RHODODENDRONS which are kept mulched in an acid soil and protected from strong winds are not apt to suffer from blight, or turn brown, with leaves rolled, as illustrated. Such Winter troubles are usually caused by dehydration.

Evergreen groundcovers usually need no mulch. Even a light mulch on pachysandra, myrtle and English ivy is apt to smother the plants.

If a topdressing of peatmoss or compost soil is used late in the Fall on the lawn, be sure it is well distributed. Unless well raked in, the grass beneath may kill out leaving bare patches in the Spring.

Successful Wintering of plants calls for more than just adequate Winter protection. Good drainage for many plants is essential; so also are good growing conditions during Summer. It is weakened or unhealthy plants which suffer most from the rigors of Winter as is the case with many people.

State Quarantines Farms in 2 Counties For Swine Disease
HARRISBURG, Nov. 28 (AP)—The State Agriculture department reported six new outbreaks of Vesicular Exanthema, a hog disease, on farms in Bucks and Delaware counties.

Dr. H. A. Milo, director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, said the new cases, as in eight previous ones reported in Pennsylvania, were fed untreated garbage.

The farms have been quarantined, Milo said, until all diseased animals are removed and the premises thoroughly cleaned.

Milo said that while the swine disease is not injurious to humans, it bears symptoms nearly identical to foot and mouth disease. Foot and mouth disease is injurious to humans.

All tests to date for foot and mouth disease show that no known cases of the sickness exist in Pennsylvania.

Corn Yield Doubled

Proving to skeptical neighbors that fertilizing is beneficial even in unusually dry seasons, Edwin Fritsche, Missouri dairy farmer living near the town of Seventy-Six in Perry county, displays results of a test he made this year. His fertilized corn (two bottom ears) yielded 101.3 bushels per acre; the unfertilized (top two) only 51.3 bushels. The fertilizer treatment was 200 pounds of 0-20-20 and 200 pounds of 33-0-0 plowed under and spreading of manure.

Cost-Cutting Pointers to Be Highlighted Of 37th Annual State Farm Show

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28 (AP)—New pointers on how to cut costs while producing more food will be offered Pennsylvania farmers free when Harrisburg becomes the farming center of the state Jan. 12-15.

On these dates the 37th Annual State Farm show will hold forth at the huge million-dollar State Farm show building. The show, ticketed as the largest indoor agricultural exposition under one roof in the United States, runs five days and four nights.

"Farmers are now averaging only 48 cents from the consumers' food dollar, lowest ever known," says Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture and chairman of the farm show commission.

"But operating costs are at the highest level in history and farmers want to know how and where to cut costs while producing more food for a growing population with fewer workers on the farm."

"Efficiency in production" is the discussion theme for the annual meetings of more than 30 state-wide farm organizations which gather during show week. Displays of labor-saving farm machinery, equipment and supplies will be a highlight of the show.

The past year's show set an all-time attendance record at 685,000. For 1953, Horst predicts a possible new record.

Pork and Beans May Become National Dish If List Is Indication

Pork and Beans may supplant Ham and Eggs as the national dish, if the list of commodities available for the National School Lunch program is any indication.

According to a release from the Production and Marketing Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture, about 12 million pounds of canned beans and peas and an additional 11 million pounds of dry edible beans, plus 26 and one-half million pounds of pork and pork products are available for distribution by the PMA through the school lunch program. The foods are available as a result of the surplus removal program—a factor in price support efforts.

In addition to the pork and beans, 14 million pounds of cheese, 16 million pounds of canned tomatoes, four million pounds of peanut butter, nine million pounds of canned peaches and eight million pounds of tomato paste are available for immediate delivery to schools in the nation.

Other surplus food items to be distributed through the program include more than 30 million pounds of turkey, seven million dozen eggs, two-and-one-half million pounds of canned cherries, 12 million pounds of dry milk, 43 cars of fresh apples and 743 cars of fresh pears.

The past year saw a record participation of 9,320,000 children in the National School Lunch program.

"If weather conditions are favorable,"

The opening evening program has been designated "Governor's Night" with Gov. John S. Fine the honored guest. An exhibition of horsemanship is to be given by the Pennsylvania State police.

Over night performances have been scheduled as "Rural Talent Festival Night," "Livestock Parade Night" and Wednesday night the State championship horse pulling contest will be held.

State Sets New Standards For Grading, Selling Eggs

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28 (AP)—Housewives were given new protection today as the State Agriculture department put into effect new and higher state standards for the grading and marketing eggs.

The new regulations provide for prosecution of dealers selling eggs which fail to meet standards of size and quality for the grade they are tagged.

A grade A egg, for instance, must meet standards for that grade—with a certain tolerance permitted, the State Agriculture department said.

The regulations were devised after two public hearings at which egg producers, wholesalers and retailers were invited to testify.

with built-in, quick-acting hitching and loading jack...
The NEW MM 15000 SPREADER has the features you want. Large feed chutes for 5 ranges of spreading gives controlled spreading from 3 to 15 loads per acre. New side extension shields for the upper hoppers are designed to prevent wrapping of long manure around the shaft. The low set wheels and box make loading much easier and faster. This new spreader can be hooked into barns with the use of a go-cart.
MM sturdy construction, heavy-duty bearings, and extra-heavy-duty axle and drive shafts look like wish minimum maintenance. The main frame of this big 75 bushel spreader is reinforced with heavy-duty steel angles and large gusset plates to give extra strength to the sides. Sideboard edges are also protected with long, heavy-duty steel angles. The guano-guard wooden bottom prevents soil and deterioration.

US Lifts Ban On Canadian Cattle Imports

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Agriculture department announced today that a ban on imports of Canadian cattle and other livestock products will be lifted March 1. It was imposed Feb. 26 because of an outbreak of hoof-and-mouth disease.

The department said the lifting of the ban is contingent on no new outbreaks of the dread disease in the interim.

The announcement follows by nearly three months the lifting of a similar ban on Mexican livestock and livestock products because of a serious epidemic in that country.

The department credited strong measures adopted by Canadian officials the past February after the outbreak in Saskatchewan with apparently eliminating the disease.

The present ban affects cattle, sheep, other domestic ruminants; swine, and fresh, chilled or frozen beef, veal, mutton, lamb and pork.

Feed Christmas-roses with weak liquid manure and dust soil around the clumps with soot to ward off slugs from attacking the bloom.

Hit-Run Driver Bowls Over Signs

A hit-and-run driver cut down two traffic signs and a gasoline pump at the Ideal Tire shop, 213 North Hanover street, at 11:30 o'clock last night.

Harold Begel, 340 Oak street, said the driver, who was operating a 1941 sedan, "told me he would report the incident to the owner tomorrow."

Route 100 and Turnpike signs were knocked off by the speeding sedan which was heading south on Hanover street and failed to negotiate the curve.

Motor Patrolman Paul I. Gallo-way and Patrolman William Mars, who investigated, reported the hit-and-run was their third in the past several weeks. They were searching for the driver early this morning.

A preliminary check revealed nothing missing and no ransacking. After a more thorough check, Dietrich discovered a dish which contained between $5 and $10 in silver had been stolen from a bureau.

Lawler and Myers arrived at the Dietrich home, which is located about 100 feet north of Glasgow street, at 5:40 o'clock.

The burglary log since Nov. 11 reads:
Nov. 11—Between $65 and $70, and two bottles of liquor stolen from the barroom at Riverside hotel, 205 South Hanover street, South Pottstown.

NOV. 12—Sixty dollars stolen from the barroom of Holy Trinity club, 437 South street.

The past Monday — $52 taken from cash drawers at the Pottstown Moose home, 320 High street.

A bottle of Scotch whisky also was taken.

The past Tuesday — Seventy-four dollars stolen from Pottstown Surplus store, 970 High street. This burglary was the second of the Surplus store in the past three years.

A pre-induction physical also is scheduled for Dec. 19, covering another group of local area men who will fill the January Selective Service quota.

YOUR GEM STORY FOR TODAY

We had a silver customer the other day and it proved to be a very unusual customer at that.

It seems that this person wanted to add to her silver. She claimed it was an 1847 Rogers pattern but its pattern name was not familiar to us. Even our silver expert, who has all patterns of all companies firmly imprinted in her mind could not recognize the pattern.

So, after additional questioning, we found that this silver was purchased by our customer's grandmother at our store in 1888 — 67 years ago — just three years after our founder started in business. You will agree that it is a very long time.

We didn't relate this amusing incident to talk about our years of business, but we do want you to know that this same 1847 Rogers Bros. Company is still making fine silver for you to enjoy and to hand down to your grandchildren.

And while we are discussing silver, we want to "put in our two cents." If it's silver you want this Christmas, come to our store. We have most all major sterling and silver-plated patterns to choose from and we stock them actively too. And what's more, you can buy as little or as much as you want of it. You can buy one piece or fifty pieces and you can use our famous silver club plan to pay for it. Already over 500 Pottstown women are using this convenient plan. Only $1.00 starts your service. So why choose from only a few—stop in to see us this Christmas. We would consider it an honor.

See you next Saturday,

Buckwalter Stove Firm Dissolving

tract of ground a quarter-mile long, located between the Schulz kill and the Reading company railroad tracks at the foot of Main street.

At its peak, it employed between 450 and 500 men. Its two leading models, the Apollo and Canopy ranges, were sold throughout the world.

The firm had the distinction of making the first plain ranges in the country (before it, ranges all had designs and scroll-work on them) and the first enameled stove in the country.

Buckwalter Stove bought out the Simplex company of Boston, Mass., to get into the manufacture of electric ranges. But its electric ranges were never accepted the way its wood and coal-burning models had been. This was one reason why the firm went out of business.

EARLY IN its history, the company had manufactured agricultural implements — including a cherry-seeder that was known nationally.

Among the few men still living who were active in the company during its halcyon days is A. L. Buckwalter, 407 Main street, Royersford. He was superintendent. A cousin S. Emmette Buckwalter, 28 Third avenue, Royersford, is a son of the late Newton Buckwalter, one of the early partners.

police officers necessary for the enforcement and control of all laws, rules and regulations pertaining to vehicular and pedestrian traffic, in connection with their assigned stations, and will have no other general police powers.

THE DUTIES of policewomen will be limited to one specifically designated function, performed on a part-time basis.

They will not be general members of the Pennsylvania Civil Service Act, nor eligible to participate in or become members of the police pension fund.

Women will be on duty approximately two hours per day.

They will be paid $1 per hour, payable bi-weekly. Each policewoman will be employed for the school years as designated by the school board.

The borough will provide women with uniforms which will include a blue skirt, two white blouses, one blue overseas cap, a badge, a blue tie, a pair of galoshes, one long blue overcoat, one blue raincoat and hat and one white belt.

Women will furnish all other wearing apparel. All shoes must be black. The borough will replace worn-out equipment and uniforms or parts of uniforms upon requisition of Chief James A. Laughead.

IN CASE of resignation or dismissal for cause, 30 days notice in writing will be given by either party.

Strange read a letter of protest from Paul L. A. Keiser, 1003 North Charlotte street. The letter complained about persons learning to drive on North Hanover street.

Members of the committee decided they could do nothing to prevent persons from learning to drive on the street unless the drivers committed a violation.

Strang reported the State Highway department has granted permission for special 15-minute parking on the east side of North Charlotte street, between King and Beech streets, during the Christmas season.

Two signs have been erected in each block in which the regulation will be in force.

Strange complained, "We have reports of some police taking too much time off, that they report off sick."

Ludghead promised, "I can handle that. I'll have the sergeants check on these fellows when they report sick."

STRANGE explained, "We have rules and regulations to take care of the men when we know they are sick. But if some of these fellows violate the rules then something ought to be done. Maybe we should start docking pay."

Laughead said, "I did that with one fellow."

The committee voted to draft a resolution for council which will request the State make surveys for traffic lights at High and Rice, High and Berks, Beech and Franklin, Beech and Keim street and Penn Village.

Borough Manager Horace B. Gulden asked the committee what Both cousins still are directors. The other three are James Nollie, 1235 High street, and Addison Raiser and Mrs. Joseph Buckwalter, Royersford.

Buildings of the old stove plant now are owned by S and D Warehouses; Rayburn Manufacturing company and the scrapyards of Harry Pulce. The short-lived Strunk Steel company also had used parts of the Buckwalter plant in the mid-1940's.

Buckwalter Stove company was the first of the firms that made Royersford the unofficial stove capital of Pennsylvania (and a leading community in the World stove market.)

AT ONE TIME, there were three big firms going full blast—Buckwalter; the Floyd-Wells company; and Grandeur Stove company. Floyd-Wells, which took over Grandeur, still is in operation.

The Buckwalter company was started in 1885 by five men: Joseph A. Buckwalter Sr. and Henry Buckwalter brothers; C. S. Francis and two other men. Francis-Buckwalter and Company was the original name.

As partners withdrew or died, the firm became Buckwalter and Company. In the late 1880's, the business really boomed, and it was recapitalized at $240,000 (the equivalent of several times that sum at today's price level) and its name changed for the last time.

It intended to do about the curfew ordinance.

Strange said, "I don't think it's necessary to blow the siren. But I believe police should continue to enforce the ordinance."

BURGESS WILLIAM A. GRIF-FITH said council voted a number of years ago to cease blowing the curfew because of numerous complaints.

Peter J. Lawler asked what action is being taken about the South Franklin street entrance to store-room of Levitz Furniture company.

Dow I. Sears, assistant to the borough manager, said the borough has an ordinance which prohibits vehicles from running over sidewalks and that residents whose properties have been violated can ask police to enforce the ordinance.

Lawler asserted, "We can't spend money on his private property."

Laughead asked the committee to purchase a camera to take pictures of burglaries, pictures which can be used in court.

The committee authorized purchase of the camera which will cost between $250 and $300.

Committeemen present were Strange, Lawler, Ralph L. Weiss, Stanley Zawaski and Charles S. Grubb.

NEAPCO STRIKE —

The union president said that he has called for a meeting with Mitchell today at which time Mitchell will be notified formally of the strike and told that the employee's latest wage and other demands will be presented to the company Monday.

Noecker added that the desired changes in the seniority clause will be in reference to equalization of overtime and job preference.

One hundred and sixty employees, 140 of them union members, will be affected by the strike which will be the third in the company's history since its founding in Pottstown in 1921.

The last walkout against Neapco, manufacturers of universal joints and drive shafts, was staged in 1950 at which time the three-week dispute was settled on a 9-cent hourly wage increase, additional insurance benefits and paid holidays.

POTTSTOWN MAN FREED

From Jail; Placed on

17-Month Probation

By Staff Correspondent

NORRISTOWN, Nov. 28—Having spent 171 days in the County Prison and a hospital, 30-year-old Michael Chaback, formerly of 609 Water street, Pottstown, was released from custody by Judge E. Arnold Forrest today, but will remain on probation for the next 17 months.

Chaback was freed immediately after he pleaded guilty to charges of burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of three cases of beer from the O'Dell Brothers warehouse, 284 North Hanover street, Pottstown, the past June 9.

Asked by Judge Forrest why he committed the crime, Chaback answered: "I needed a drink. I thought I was going to die."

This led to the defendant's commitment to the State hospital, where he was a patient from Sept. 25 to Nov. 10.

HE WAS in jail from June 9 until his transfer to the mental institution.

In sentencing the defendant today, Judge Forrest gave him 171 days in prison (already served), and placed him on probation. He must pay the cost of prosecution within six months.

Since he has been in jail, Chaback's Water street home has been sold and his wife and their small daughter are living with her parents.

CHABACK, ADMITTEDLY a heavy drinker, promised the court that he would refrain from the use of alcohol. He has become a member of Alcoholics Anonymous since his arrest, he said.

The defendant was arrested by Sgt. Thomas A. Lawler and Motor Patrolman Robert Scheidt at 5:30 a. m., June 9 as he slept among the cases of beer in East End cemetery.

He had entered O'Dell's through a window early the night before, lugged the beer to the cemetery and went on a one-man spree until his arrest.

'Liberty Bell Limited'

Going Into Retirement

EVERETT, Mass., Nov. 28 (AP)—The "Liberty Bell, Limited" that used to clang happily through Allentown, Pa., is going into permanent retirement in the museum yard of the New England Electric Railways Historical society, incorporated, at Kennecunkport, Me.

The outraged electric car, once the pride and joy of the Lehigh Valley Transit company, was painted and put into good condition by members of the society in the yards here of the Metropolitan Transit authority.

The car will be transported to the museum on a trailer truck.

a long time."

He added, however, "I want a trophy and will try to get out every day of deer season until I get one — provided I have transportation."

Nuss said he has scouted the area in which he hopes to hunt and has seen anywhere from one to 13 deer there at any one time.

"If I told anyone about them they wouldn't believe me, but I've ran across buck up there with from two to eight points and there's one four-pointer that I'm practically on speaking terms with," he related.

The hunter also made it a point to declare that as much as he would like to get a buck this year, he was interested primarily in getting outdoors. "I would rather hear an oriole sing than a concert orchestra," he said.

NUSS REGARDS hunting as a great privilege, and speaking with many years of experience warned especially the younger nimrods to "please wear red clothing when they go after deer Monday, even if it's only a rag — wear it."

"And another thing," he said, "be sure of what you're shooting at. I've seen men hurt through carelessness before and it's not a very pleasant sight."

Area game wardens also issued the same advice with a few additional words about the deer season which officially opens at 7 o'clock Monday morning and closes Saturday, Dec. 13.

Although for those not particularly interested in mounting a buck's rack and attracted more by the succulence of venison, there will be an additional "antlerless deer" season from Dec. 15 to 17, provided they get the required special license.

Regardless of the number of open seasons, including the bow and arrow period the past Oct. 13 to 25, during which hunters stalked deer, the legal bag limit is still a total of one per person per year.

Indicating the popularity of the sport in the local area will be the many hunting parties leaving by car from the Pottstown area to various parts of Pennsylvania for their annual deer hunt.

PROBABLY ONE of the largest groups will be an 8-man party travelling tomorrow morning to the Pocompauc hotel in Wayne county.

Jack G. O'Brien, 10 Moser road, sales manager for Nagle Motors, incorporated, 1340 High street, said the group will hunt for four days.

A veteran of 20 years of deer hunting, O'Brien said he uses a .300 Magnum rifle and can lay claim to 5 buck and four doe, with an eight-pointer as his largest trophy.

Others joining him in this year's hunt will be Webster S. Canning, 1223 Cherry street; Robert P. Hartenstein, 23 North Hanover street; Raymond Hartenstein, Sanatoga; Frank Hartenstein, 662 Walnut street; Harry E. Eger, 1412 Cherry lane; Maurice Roth, 1414 Sunset drive; and Edward L. Gruber, Kenilworth.

A FATHER AND SONS team will also take to the wilderness Sunday, only this family group is heading for Luzerne county and will hunt in the vicinity of Wilkes-Barre.

Michael Drauschak, Pottstown RD. 4, who has been gunning for big game the past 20 years, said for the past few years he has been taking his sons, Max, Frederick, William, Tom and John along and the "kids have a few deer to their credit."

This season, however, John Drauschak won't be going along since he is serving with the Army in Korea.

Nuss said he has scouted the area in which he hopes to hunt and has seen anywhere from one to 13 deer there at any one time.

"If I told anyone about them they wouldn't believe me, but I've ran across buck up there with from two to eight points and there's one four-pointer that I'm practically on speaking terms with," he related.

The hunter also made it a point to declare that as much as he would like to get a buck this year, he was interested primarily in getting outdoors. "I would rather hear an oriole sing than a concert orchestra," he said.

NUSS REGARDS hunting as a great privilege, and speaking with many years of experience warned especially the younger nimrods to "please wear red clothing when they go after deer Monday, even if it's only a rag — wear it."

"And another thing," he said, "be sure of what you're shooting at. I've seen men hurt through carelessness before and it's not a very pleasant sight."

Area game wardens also issued the same advice with a few additional words about the deer season which officially opens at 7 o'clock Monday morning and closes Saturday, Dec. 13.

Although for those not particularly interested in mounting a buck's rack and attracted more by the succulence of venison, there will be an additional "antlerless deer" season from Dec. 15 to 17, provided they get the required special license.

Regardless of the number of open seasons, including the bow and arrow period the past Oct. 13 to 25, during which hunters stalked deer, the legal bag limit is still a total of one per person per year.

Indicating the popularity of the sport in the local area will be the many hunting parties leaving by car from the Pottstown area to various parts of Pennsylvania for their annual deer hunt
